

“We have remained focused on building a business-friendly environment in Mississippi, with the end goal of attracting new industry and creating quality jobs for our people,” said Governor Ronnie Musgrove. “The announcement of the Plumrose expansion is another indication that our work has been focused in the right direction and it’s paying off.”